POLITICAL SCENE CHANGES—Democrats are beginning to move into Chicago now that the Republican convention is history. —Wide Open Convention Taking Shape— First Demo Forces Move Into Chicago

Dixie Group Geared For A Drive To Rewrite Civil Rights Program And Nominate Russell

By DON WHITEHEAD
CHICAGO (AP)—The Democrats advance guard began moving into Chicago Sunday with signs that Dixie Democrats are geared for a high powered campaign aimed at rewriting the party's civil rights program and nominating Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia for the presidency.

Democrats were almost stepping on the heels of departing Republicans as they began opening headquarters and making arrangements for the wide-open national convention battle starting next week.

Russell backers got the jump on six other avowed Democratic presidential hopefuls by opening a headquarters and firing the first shot in the pre-convention maneuver. All the candidates are expected to be on the scene by mid-week.

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama told a news conference Russell would have a better chance of beating Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—the GOP nominee—than any other Democratic candidate. And, he denounced as "unfair" the claim of some that Russell is a "sectional candidate."

They Want Russell
He disclosed a large group of Southern senators will move into Chicago this week to throw their support behind the Georgian.

"We believe that Dick Russell is entitled to carry the party's banner this year," he said. "And we are dedicated to that purpose."

Sparkman said the Southerners will fight for a re-statement of the civil rights plank that would be "fair, frank and truthful."

But, he made it clear such a re-statement would not contain the explosive call for a compulsory Fair Employment Practices commission (FEPC). This was the issue that split the Democrats in 1948 and caused the Southern Democrats to bolt the party.

"I have high hopes for a platform that will be acceptable,"

Flash Rain Inundates Wilber

Knee-Deep Water Flows In Streets

Creek Out Near Here

Police said early Monday morning Beal's Slough had gone out and put about a foot of water over Highway 2 at the bend just south of College View. There were no other reports of flooding near Lincoln.

WILBER—(Special To The Star)—A torrential downpour—an unofficial total of four and a half inches in 45 minutes—late Sunday night sent knee-deep water rushing through the main street of Wilber.

Creeks to the west of the 1,360 population town were running full and pouring water into the city park. John Tesar, Saline County sheriff, told The Star that two prisoners were evacuated from the city jail to the county jail because of water more than a foot deep was rushing through the lower section of town.

City Clerk Louis Kusy, who was stranded at his filling station in knee-deep water, was rescued by fireman. City firemen were busy evacuating a number of residents from their homes, Sheriff Tesar said.

The normally dry creek was sending water a block wide through the town, observers reported. Sheriff Tesar said the creek running through the city park was running bank full and overflowing in spots.

Although rain had stopped falling early Monday morning, Tesar said he expected that park benches and playground equipment would be washed away.

Bundles of oats from farms west of town were being carried through main street by the rising waters, observers said.

At nearby Crete, only about an inch of rain was reported without any damage. Observers said lightning was heavy there, though.

Showers Scattered

Scattered heavy thunderstorms drenched both western and eastern sections of the state late Sunday evening and early Monday morning.

Grand Island recorded 2.73 inches of precipitation for the 24-hour period ending at 12:30 Monday. In the same period 1.15 inches was reported at Lexington.

Lincoln's total for the same period was 32 inches according to the airport weather station.

A sudden downpour late Sunday night accounted for most of the total.

More Rain Promised
Monday promised more heavy rainfall for the eastern section of the state, the Weather Bureau reported.

Severe thunderstorms with local hail and strong gusty surface winds were predicted for the forenoon.

Rainfall late Saturday and early Sunday ranged from a trace in western Nebraska to an unofficial record of nearly four inches west of Beaver Crossing.

Lincoln received a total of 2.49 inches in the 24-hour period ending Sunday noon. Beaver Crossing recorded 2.10 inches in the same period.

NO ONE HURT SERIOUSLY—Despite the apparent seriousness of this accident, there were no injuries. The car, driven by Melvin (Jack) Hahn, 20, of 626 A, was forced onto the shoulder of the Denton road about 2 1/4 miles east of Denton where it hit the bridge shown at right and fell into the small creek—about 12 feet below. Hahn and three passengers were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital where they were released without treatment. (Star Photo.)

Construction Unions Set For Strike

Pickets To Start On Jobs Of Seven Firms

Several hundred Lincoln construction workers—painters, carpenters and laborers—were to begin striking and picketing the work of seven local contractors Monday.

A dispute, mainly over wages, has been going on since April between the seven firms belonging to the Associated General Contractors and the Carpenters Local 1055, the Painters Local 18 and the Hodcarriers Building and Common Labor Local 540, all AFL.

The three locals will co-operate in the picketing and have someone at each job under construction by any of the seven firms.

Lincoln construction companies belonging to the A.G.C. are: Olson, Assenmacher, Kingery, Westcott-Bowen, George Cook, Eaton & Eaton, and Wilson companies.

One union spokesman said construction wages in Lincoln have been behind Omaha and other Midwestern cities for several years. He said Omaha carpenters get $2.42 1/2 cents an hour while Lincoln carpenters get $2.12 1/2.

The wage-range of the Laborers union is from $1.37 1/2 for common labor to $1.72 1/2 for plaster-tenders. The plaster-tender rate is about the same as Omaha's but the common-labor figure is lower here, according to W. L. Parker of the Laborers local.

Frank Gullifer of the Painters Local refused to comment on the picketing or the local.

Work will go on as usual unless and until the men quit, according to Phil J. Assenmacher of the Assenmacher firm. He said he'd have no official notice of the picketing.

A federal mediator from Omaha, Edward Ries, has been aiding in the negotiations.

Ries told The Star he expected the picketing to begin Monday. Because of the antagonism that is usually present at the beginning of a strike, he said, he would schedule no meetings Monday, but would try and get both sides together later in the week.

About 400 men belong to the Carpenters local here, and about 200 men of the Laborers' local will be involved.

The union contract with the A.G.C. ran out April 1.

U.S. Surgeon General Says Looks Like A Big Polio Year

Dr. Leonard Scheele, U. S. Surgeon General and past president of the World Health Organization, warned Sunday night that "it looks like a big polio year."

Dr. Scheele is in Lincoln to address an All-University World Affairs Clinic Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

"We already have 400 to 500 more cases for the same period than the previous peak year," he told The Star.

"Present research gives me reason to hope for some means of prevention," he commented, "but there is no reason to expect much this year."

"The University of Pittsburgh group working with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in Houston is experimenting with gamma globulin, but it will be some time before any results are known—perhaps next fall."

Should the drug not prove a preventive, he said, it may at least modify the disease much the same as it does in treatment of measles, such as lessening paralysis itself.

He cautioned, however, that gamma globulin does not give total immunity over a long period of time. One problem, he said, is to find the right time to give it should it be effective.

In regard to WHO he said the United States does not benefit much directly since its principle activities are confined to underdeveloped countries.

In two fields, he said, the U. S.

DR. LEONARD SCHEELE

benefits—in the work of WHO to standardize drugs, doses, vitamins and antibiotics, and in the training and experience field workers receive.

WHO's annual budget is $8 million, he said, which represents available cash. Its assessed budget is $9 1/2 million. The difference he attributed to the withdrawal from WHO of Russia and other iron curtain nations.

"Match $9 1/2 million with all the health problems of the world," he said, "and you can see you haven't got much after all. There is a tremendous gap between what we have and what we need."

Another agency involved in health work overseas, he said, is the Technical Cooperative Administration under the Point Four program. Activities of WHO and TCA, he said, are mainly coordinated because they are so small in relation to problems they are concerned with.

"The scope of world health problems, he pointed out, can be realized when it is known that one-half of the world's population does not live over thirty."

NINE-YEAR-OLD BELIEVES:

'A Man's Best Friend Is His Robin'

By MARILYN KIRKBY (Star Staff Writer)

Billy Earl Hokanson, 9, son of Mrs. Virjean Hokanson, 1010 So. 35th, firmly believes that "man's best friend is his robin."

The robin was found by Billy after Lincoln's rainstorm in mid-June. "I think it was knocked out of the nest," Billy explained. "I found it on Franklin Ave. and I looked and looked for it's mother but I couldn't find her. So I brought the baby robin home and tamed it."

The Hokansons, whose pets include two turtles, two squirrels, and a Boston terrier named "Me Too," keep the young robin in a large wire cage in the garage. Billy, playing the role of a mother bird, is now teaching his pet to fly. The robin's longest flight so far has been a solo hop of some 50 feet.

Billy explained that he hasn't named his bird as yet because "I'm waiting to see if it's going to be a girl or a boy robin."

The biggest problem the robin-lamer has encountered is keeping his pet supplied with worms. "I wish I could feed that bird so many angleworms that he'd be so full he'd never want another one," Billy groaned. A heavy

Reaction Awaited To Industry Proposals

No Immediate Bargaining Sessions In Sight, But Air Of Expectancy Hangs Over Strike Scene

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Strike-bound steel companies disclosed Sunday night they are waiting for union reaction to new suggestions they made for settling the steel walkout, but no immediate bargaining sessions are expected.

The steel companies engaged in the wage dispute issued a statement which said the suggestions were made in the past few days and added:

"Those suggestions still are under consideration by the union. There are no definite arrangements for further meetings and the company representatives have left for their homes."

But despite that announcement, an air of expectancy hangs over the steel strike because one large steel producer still is actively meeting with President Philip Murray of the CIO United Steelworkers.

Murray Silent
Murray, however, held back a statement on the situation which he had half promised newsmen might be forthcoming.

The labor leader met briefly with Joseph Larkin, chief negotiator and vice president of Bethlehem Steel in a downtown hotel. Each was accompanied by legal counsel.

There was no announcement following the meeting except that Murray said he might be back later. A union source described the session as mostly conversational.

As the strike droned through its 42nd day, its cost was conservatively estimated at two billion dollars to the nation's economy.

The number of workers idled as the result of the June 2 walk-out has risen to almost 1,500,000, slightly more than were jobless when the big steel strike of 1949 ended after 42 days.

Iowa Plane Crash Hurts Lincoln Man

Truman V. Parker, about 20, of the Lincoln Naval Air Station, was critically injured Sunday night when the light plane he was piloting crashed near Marengo, Ia.

Also in critical condition was a young woman, about 23, identified as Maxine Helen Thede, of Palmer, Neb.

The plane the two were in, rented from Flight Lines, Inc., at Lincoln, had left here about 5:30 p.m., according to Al Loder, Flight Lines manager.

An ambulance driver told the Associated Press the plane apparently ran out of gas and attempted to land on the road. The plane hit a power line while landing and was badly damaged.

The Marengo hospital said both were unconscious, and had both on the critical list. The hospital said Parker was from Marquette, Neb.

The ambulance driver quoted the young woman as saying they were enroute to visit friends at Cedar Rapids, about 30 miles northeast of Marengo.

U.N. Agrees To A Recess

... After Red Request

MUSAN (Monday) (INS)—The Communists today asked for a two-day recess of the Korean armistice talks amid mounting evidence of Communist concern over the Allied bombings of Pyongyang.

United Nations armistice delegates agreed to the recess, but gave no explanation for the Red request.

Truce talks have been stalled for many weeks on the prisoner of war issue. The Allies refuse to send war prisoners back to communist homelands against their will and the communists demand a total exchange of prisoners, especially Chinese soldiers in Allied captivity.

Seaton Named To Eisenhower Campaign Staff

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower Sunday announced the formation of an advisory group which included Sen. Fred A. Seaton of Hastings, Neb., to aid him in the coming campaign.

The announcement followed a two-hour meeting with Herbert Brownell, a former Nebraska and one of the general's closest advisors before the GOP convention.

Brownell, now a New York attorney, who managed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's 1948 presidential campaign, said his private talk with Eisenhower was "just to say goodbye."

Inmate At Pen 'Walks Away' From Dairy

Law enforcement officers were on the lookout early Monday morning for Thomas Franklin Kunkle, 20, State Penitentiary inmate who "walked away" unobserved Sunday afternoon.

Working at the penitentiary dairy farm as a trustee, Kunkle "just walked away, without being observed," penitentiary officials said.

They said they could not tell in what direction he had gone.

State and local police were immediately alerted and the following description was flashed: "Medium build, about 5' 11", 150 pounds, ruddy complexion, blue eyes, light brown hair. Wearing white trousers and a white or blue shirt."

Warden Herbert Hann said that the man was "not dangerous" and as "far as anyone knows" he is unarmed.

Kunkle began a one-year sentence for burglary on Jan. 11 of this year. He had previously served sentences in Colorado and Ohio for violation of the Dyer Act, transporting stolen automobiles across a state line.

CONGRESS TO GET PROPOSAL:

Direct Election Needed, Author Says

The conduct of the Republican National Convention and other recent political developments prove the need for direct election of our highest officials, the President and Vice President of the United States, according to Andrae Nordskog of Los Angeles.

"We all know, or should know, of attempts at bribery, of party boss control, of the buying and selling of blocs of delegates for huge sums of money at our national conventions. This system must be abolished; be written off by historians as tragedies of the past," he declares.

Nordskog, who has been called one of America's outstanding political thinkers, stopped in at The Star office Sunday morning for a brief visit with J. E. Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star, and Dr. John P. Senning, retired professor of political science at the University of Nebraska.

In the discussion which followed, Nordskog argued in favor of abolishing the Electoral College, and revealed that he is co-author of a bill which would repeal the 12th Amendment of the Constitution and provide for the direct election of the President and Vice President. This bill is scheduled to be placed before the 83rd Congress next January.

If passed, this bill would become the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution. It provides for a primary election in each state, by which voters shall name their first, second, and third choice for a Presidential candidate.

The person receiving the greatest number of votes would become the nominee from his state. Then, in the national election in November, the nominees from all states would appear on the ballot.

Nordskog worked closely with Nebraska's late Sen. George Norris on a similar piece of legislation in 1934. That bill failed by one vote to get the required two-thirds majority vote in the Senate was viewed by the late senator as one of the keenest disappointments of his career.

Ike Ducks Politics; Romps With His Grandchildren

... General Leaves For Denver This Evening

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Sunday set politics aside and spent "a wonderful day" with his grandchildren. Gen. Eisenhower relaxed at Fort Sheridan, some 25 miles north of Chicago, after a leisurely automobile trip with Mrs. Eisenhower. The grandchildren have been staying with their maternal grandparents, Col. and Mrs. Percy Thompson.

Eisenhower's son, Army Maj. John, has been staying at his home in the east.

After the visit, the general told newsmen he had put off his trip to Denver until Monday evening because his son will arrive here earlier in the day from Highland Falls, N. Y., enroute to Korea.

"It'll probably be the last chance we have to see him before he leaves," Eisenhower said.

Call Him "Daddy Ike"

He spent about three hours at the Thompson residence where he visited with the youngsters—who call him "Daddy Ike"—and had for dinner Virginia ham and hot biscuits.

The general was trim in a light gray summer suit. Mrs. Eisenhower wore a strapless blue-pink dress with a matching bolero jacket.

Before starting the return trip to his Blackstone Hotel suite here, Grandparents Eisenhower and Thompson posed for photographers with the children.

They are David, 4, who resembles the general; Barbara Ann, 3; and Susan, 6 months.

Calling to David, who was riding around the spacious lawn on a tricycle, the general said: "Come up and get your picture taken. Do a little mugging, will you? You've got to grin."

David obliged, and so did Barbara Ann.

Asked whether he had a pleasant visit with the youngsters and the Thompsons, Eisenhower said: "Oh boy! It was wonderful, just wonderful."

It was his first escape from the whirl of politics since he came to Chicago over a week ago.

When he left Ft. Sheridan, Eisenhower gave David a bear hug and said:

"Goodbye, fellow. Be seeing you."

Eisenhower plans to fly to Denver Monday, leaving about 6 p.m. (CST).

He said he intends to take it completely easy in Denver, and to leave there in a few days for a vacation at some nearby ranch.

He said the location had not been determined yet.

The general added that if Mrs. Eisenhower decides to remain in Denver he may change signals and go fishing instead "somewhere up in the Rockies."

Meanwhile, Eisenhower paid tribute to Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts who managed the campaign which won the presidential nomination for the general.

Eisenhower said in a statement that Lodge desires to return to Massachusetts to wage an active campaign for re-election.

Eisenhower said he had agreed to let Lodge go "only because I attach the greatest importance to his re-election to the senate."

The general has cut his last official tie with the Army—41 years after entering West Point as a cadet.

Red Hydro Plants Take New Blow

U.N. Ground Troops Hang On To Key Hill

SEOUL, Korea (Monday) (AP)—Allied infantrymen today beat off a savage Red attack on a key hill position at the eastern end of the Korean battle front. The U. N. troops captured the hill late last night after a fierce three-day assault.

North Koreans stormed back up the hill in the pre-dawn darkness this morning but U.N. soldiers held firm in a 90-minute battle.

The rest of the front was relatively quiet.

American Navy planes and light bombers attacked strategic communist targets.

Pinewood Bowl Show Ruined By Downpour

More than 5,000 people were victims of a torrential rain while viewing Professor Oscar Bennett's production of "Naughty Marietta" at Pinewood Bowl Sunday night.

For the second consecutive time in two days, the operetta was halted at the end of the first act.

Attendance for Victor Herbert's immortal operetta was an estimated 2,000 above the opening night performance.

The operetta will extend through Tuesday because of the postponed performance Saturday. Curtain time for the Monday and Tuesday night presentations is 8:15 p.m., weather permitting.

More than a 1,000 attending the third Lincoln Municipal Band concert at Antelope Park Sunday night were fortunate.

Although dampness still hugged the ground and pools of muddy water stood in grassless spots from Saturday night's drenching rain, the audience had its first favorable weather in three Sunday concerts. Threatening, dark rain clouds held themselves in abeyance until the concert was finished.

Despite competition from the Pinewood Bowl performance of "Naughty Marietta," automobiles were still streaming into the park grounds at intermission to equal the attendance figures set at the opening summer concert.

The 34-piece band, under the direction of John Shildneek, opened the program with a rousing march, "Spirit of the U.S.A."

Taft, Wife Begin Summer Vacation At Pointe-au-Pic

POINTE-AU-PIC, Que. (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio arrived here aboard a private plane from Chicago, Sunday night, for a summer vacation.

Defeated in his bid for the presidential nomination at the Republican convention in Chicago, Sen. Taft said it had been a hectic week and he was here to relax for awhile.

"I'll break up my annual vacation Wednesday to spend two or three days in Washington," he said. "Then the children will join us and we'll remain here until Labor Day."

Sen. Taft said he planned to do some fishing and "just rest" during his stay.

The Tafts settled down as guests of Mrs. W. P. Sample near their own cottage, which burned April 26.

Most Would Come Out Of Defense

By CHARLES MOLONY
WASHINGTON (AP)—What are the prospects of getting government costs down enough to cut taxes without running the government into the red?
To reach a realistic answer, you need to consider that:
1. Just to balance the budget, government spending would have to be cut at least 10 billion dollars below the level seemingly assured for this fiscal year.
2. Then another whack of at least seven billion would have to be made in outlays to get even a 10 per cent cut in taxes in the next couple of years.
3. Most of the 17 billion dollar or more spending slash would have to come out of the defense part of the budget—the military and foreign economic and arms aid items that make up about 57 billions, or nearly 75 per cent of the budget total.

Plenty of Authority
There's plenty of authority for these statements—President Truman and former President Herbert Hoover, and the Senate-House Economic Committee staff, to name three.
But before turning to them, there's a point worth noting briefly, for it bears upon something that might affect the disposition of any President and Congress to slash spending on such a big scale:
The first 10 billion dollar whack, before the matched spending and tax cuts were reached, would be likely to cause some pain for business and labor.
The reason: Government spending in excess of its income props up the level of business and employment, as economic analysts and financial pages proclaim daily, even when they deplore the inflationary consequences. Removing the prop would cost business some profits, labor some jobs—unless consumer spending took an offsetting jump of 10 billion.

Truman And Hoover Quoted
The second-round cut in spending, the one that would be matched by tax cuts, would be different: Chances would be greater for the public to boost its spending about as much as the government cuts its outlays, for the tax reduction would leave the public more money to spend.
But let's get away from whether spending cuts permitting tax cuts WILL be made and back to whether they CAN be made. That takes us back to the two men with experience in the presidential office.
Truman and Hoover take opposite positions, although they agree on the important point that the defense program would have to be the major spot for cuts in spending.

The Truman view is that a cut is unthinkable at this time in view of world conditions. Truman contends spending must go up, not down, for the next year or so because the defense program must be expanded further, and that talk of waste in the budget is false. Instead of taxes being cut, he says, they should be increased to balance the budget and keep the government from having to resort to inflationary borrowing.
Would Slash Ground Troops
Hoover: "We can make some cuts in spending by stopping waste, corruption and private privilege, but the total of all such reductions would not even reduce the prospective budget deficit by one-half, to say nothing of stopping inflation or reducing taxes. The reality is that we cannot even balance the budget and reduce taxes except by cutting into this military and foreign spending."
Hoover's main suggestion was to slash outlays on ground troops, rely on "expansion of air power and Navies to make up a great striking force which could destroy the Communist military potential if they started any aggression anywhere.

Local NAA Group Observes 'Aviation Day' Celebration

Members and guests of the Lincoln chapter of the National Aeronautics Association celebrated an "Aviation Day" at Arrow Airport Sunday afternoon.
Free "get acquainted with aviation" flights were given to members and guests. Of the 80 persons in attendance, 50 of them took advantage of the free-ride offer.
For 25 or more of those that flew, it was their first flight.
Planes for the rides were furnished by club members owning their own planes. Swimming, fishing, archery and shuffleboard were other activities of the day.
In the evening movies and a buffet supper were held at the NAA club room in the Capital Hotel.

No Skywatch Duty Ordered For Nebraska

Nebraska's ground observers will not participate immediately in Operation Skywatch, a 24-hour watch ordered Saturday by the Air Force against possible air attack.
State Civil Defense Administrator Wendell Harding made this announcement Sunday. But, he added, orders are expected alerting Nebraska units at any time.
Twenty-seven states were affected by the Air Force order which alerted 150,000 observers in 9,000 ground observing stations. All states north of Nebraska were affected by the order.
While Nebraska units await orders, Harding said, preparations for new posts and more volunteers continue. Only one-fourth of the 400 posts planned for the state are now in existence.
"The big job in civil defense," Harding stressed, "is getting volunteers. We want and need all the volunteers we can get over the entire state."

One Post Here
Lincoln now has one post at the Burlington roundhouse. These volunteers are observing in addition to their regular jobs.
Another post is planned in southeast Lincoln in the College View area and will need 50 to 75 volunteers, each working from four to six hours per week. Air Force teams are available to train workers.
Observers, Harding said, are not required to identify aircraft. Only multi-engine aircraft are reported to filter centers. At these filter centers—Omaha and North Platte for Nebraska—information is funneled to the nearest fighter-interceptor wing headquarters.
Persons wanting to volunteer should contact their city or county civil defense director, Harding said.

Tents Sheltering Victims Of Quakes

FORLI, Italy (AP)—Several thousand Italians camped out in tents or found shelter in make-shift huts Sunday after a week of recurrent earthquakes in this central Italian province.
The Italian army rushed in tents to shelter homeless.
The villages of Modigliana and Santa Sofia as well as many mountain hamlets have been extensively damaged.

YOU'D NEVER KNOW I HAD PSORIASIS
"I suffered mental anguish in my bathing suit (S.D.) because of psoriasis crusts and scales. Thanks from the depth of a grateful heart for what Sirol has done for me." The writer of this letter (in our files) has learned, too, what thousands of psoriasis sufferers now know. Sirol tends to remove psoriasis lesions on outer skin. If lesions recur, light applications of Sirol will help control them. Sirol will stain clothing or bed linen and is offered on a two-weeks-satisfaction-or-money-refunded basis. From Lincoln's Pulpits: 'Domestic Confusion A Major Cause Of Sorrow'—Rev. Crisp

"Next to the problems involving one's health, domestic confusion ranks as the principle cause of human unhappiness," Rev. A. C. Crisp, told his St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed Church congregation Sunday.
"Domestic difficulties destroy one's ideals, peace of mind and chances of success," the pastor pointed out. "So very much of domestic difficulties are little more than the annoyances and frictions of human dispositions and personality habits."
"The solution of most marriage problems rests in the mutual willingness of all concerned to make adjustments," he said.
"In 90 per cent of all situations," he added, "blame really lies in both persons' inability to make adjustments."
The pastor explained that "marriage and family life have the best chance of survival under the guidance of Jesus Christ."
"The Christian spirit not only provides the infinite wisdom and patience so necessary in facing out problems," he explained, "but it is that miracle of prevention that keeps problems from being born."

First Covenant
Visiting pastor at the First Covenant Church, Rev. Albin E. Nelson of Mead, said Sunday that "sometimes we feel that the Christian kingdom is a hard principle to grasp and understand."
"The average man of today does not see the significance of the kingdom of Jesus Christ," he stressed, "which does not imply indifference to the political governments of the world."
"A second misconception about Christ's kingdom is that it is not separate from the pursuits of human kind."
"We must go into the world," taking Christianity with us," he continued.

"The highest joy is when we invest in what God has entrusted us with," he said. "The Christian should use this world as a means, and not as an end."
"We need more men in responsible positions who allow Christ to become the central figure in their lives," he commented.

Interracial, Interdenominational
At the Interracial and Interdenominational Church, Rev. T. O. McWilliams spoke on the need of the Holy Spirit in our lives today.
"One must know the Father, Son and Holy Spirit—the three manifest parts known as the Trinity," he told his congregation.
"Through the Old Testament, God was a god of power and authority," he explained. "In John there is a revelation of Christ as an infinite companion and love, the teacher and savior of man."
"The other property of God was little known by the world or even by His chosen people. It is the propelling power in the spiritual realm as revealed in the Holy Spirit."

The pastor explained that "the world is so filled with losses and bereavements that not only the bereaved but every follower of Jesus also."

Record Army Career Near End For Ike

WASHINGTON (INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has held every title in the Army's book in 41 years' service, but as GOP presidential candidate he had his cap set Sunday for the rank of "Mister Civilian."
The Army said it will act as "rapidly as possible" on Ike's request that it take formal steps to remove the last trappings of his five-star rank in advance of the impending political campaign.
As a civilian, of course, the Republican nominee would be free to say anything he chooses about the administration. President Truman would no longer be his "commander-in-chief."
The Army said once the formal process is completed, Eisenhower will sever all military connections. An Army spokesman said Ike may be called "General" as a courtesy but, to the department, he will be just "Mister Eisenhower."

As a civilian, the general loses more than $19,000 a year in retirement pay and allowances. However, he already had waived his income when he returned in June to campaign for the nomination.
The Army said he could return to the services if he chooses but that it probably would take an act of Congress to restore his five-star rank.
Rites For Pearl Fraas, 66, To Be Held Monday

'Choice Of Ike Sure To Cause Losses'—Langlie

CHICAGO (INS)—Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington said Sunday there are "bound to be some defections" as a result of Gen. Eisenhower's nomination as GOP presidential candidate.
But the man who introduced the so-called "fair play" amendment at the Republican convention contended that Ike will attract far more votes than he drives away.
On CBS' televised "Man of the Week," Langlie declined to be pinned down on whether he believes individual supporters of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) will campaign actively for the general. He said he could not speak for Taft backers like Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) and Rep. Reece (D-Tenn.).
Langlie admitted that "deep feelings were engendered" by the Taft-Ike conflict, but expressed belief that Eisenhower can do more than any other possible candidate to heal the breach.

Levant Must Rest
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Oscar Levant, 45, pianist and composer, has been forced to cancel concert engagements in Milwaukee, and Hollywood because of overwork and general exhaustion.
His wife, Mrs. Florence R. Levant, said Sunday that the Gershwin interpreter has been ordered to bed for a long rest. He cannot see visitors.
Mrs. Levant said her husband's condition is good, but that during a recent concert tour of the East, which has been undergoing record heat waves, her husband's condition was aggravated.
Levant was to have left for a Tuesday concert engagement in Milwaukee. He also has been forced to cancel his featured appearance at an all-Gershwin concert, July 26, at the Hollywood Bowl.

No. 1 of a Series
By J. E. LAWRENCE

There were tears, the news columns said, in the eyes of Gen. Eisenhower when a few minutes after his nomination, he walked across the street to call upon his defeated rival. It was a gracious, thoughtful gesture towards a fallen foe, the kind of a thing the American people associate with Gen. Eisenhower. We cannot believe Gen. Eisenhower is so naive he did not recognize Sen. Taft rated a "tear."

In previous accounts during the progress of the Republican National Convention, we undertook to dig a little bit beneath the surface. Wot hoppen? The skies fell in on one very powerful segment of the party, suggesting (a) surrender or complete abandonment of the position that it has taken with respect to American life; (b) a determination to fight on for what it regards as the essence of Republican party policy.

Sen. Bob Taft lost because of his own blundering, a great many writers have told the reader. Obviously Taft's board of strategy blundered, but that is only half of the story. The Ohioan fought a fight of which he could be proud—conducted a campaign which will leave no pangs of conscience. Historically he was up against a clamor that was irresistible—a clamor for a man who could win irrespective of the nominee's qualification for the office. Winning is a part of politics but the cry of a winner is a pretty sordid one. The biggest gun in the arsenal of the Eisenhower camp was that like could win; admitting his inexperience in public affairs, he could surround himself with men who knew the ins and outs of it. For the second time, this idea of a government of "best minds" served in part to allay the uneasiness of many of those concerned with Eisenhower's obvious limitations in the knowledge of government.

Generally the American people have no stomach for a government shaped and directed by appointees. They like to elect their captain—there is a lot of satisfaction in it when they recognize that the man who charts the course does so as a result of the commission he receives from them. Taft lost not so much by reason of his own mistakes but because of an overpowering psychology, carefully nursed, that like could bring the party back.

All accepted notions of the two-party system were kicked overboard in the Eisenhower victory. Taft won the contests for delegates when before the National Committee. In a very large sense, the members of the National Committee were the same men and women commissioned in 1948 by Gov. Thomas Dewey; the same men and women kicked in the teeth by Dewey last week. There had been few changes in the membership. National committeemen and national committeewomen are not chosen on the national level; actually they hold their post by virtue of the approval of the party organization in the states—either through state convention choice or by actual popular vote of the registered voters of the party. It was this situation which inspired Sen. Dirksen to ask the rhetorical question: "How can you repudiate the action of the National Committee and yet expect the public to place any confidence in that group?"

It was the convention which established the credentials committee, with one member from each state, and with the delegation of each state choosing its representative on the credentials committee. They were not dictated by Bob Taft. There was no way Taft could influence the selection of members of the credentials committee. But Taft held a majority of the members of the delegations in 25 states, Eisenhower in 21. Taft likewise held the advantage in all of the territories. In other words, the actions of the credentials committee actually reflected the honest alignment of each of the 48 states. Again it was this—this fact—which inspired Sen. Dirksen to ask how anyone could expect the public to place any confidence in a convention which overruled a credentials committee of its own choosing.

Those are good questions. The answer is brute weight of numbers in six populous, industrialized states. The credentials committee was overruled because six states in the voting on the floor had big enough delegations to dominate the convention. One man, Tom Dewey, held in the hollow of his hand more votes on the convention floor as head and complete master of the New York delegation than all the votes wielded by Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Kansas, representing as those states do about a tenth of the total land area of the United States. The votes of six states with huge blocs of delegates—New York, Michigan, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maryland, and Texas (the latter a contested delegation taken from Taft and given to Eisenhower)—a total of 278 votes—just short of one-fourth of the total voting strength of the convention itself—enabled those states to ride herd, and ride herd they did.

It is only once in a blue moon that a convention rejects the work of its own credentials committee. And some of the forces back of that action will be treated here in subsequent columns.

The Colonel's Sendoff

There was much gloom and licking of wounds in Tribune Tower when the Republican presidential nomination went to Gen. Eisenhower. The old colonel, Robert McCormick, who strongly for Taft and MacArthur, and the adjectives usually rolled out for the Democrats were brushed off, sharpened and pointed at Gen. Eisenhower before and during the convention proceedings.

In its first editorial after the collapse of its dreams, the Chicago Tribune graciously admitted that "the chances for a Republican victory in November can be regarded as fairly bright." This meant a 180-degree reversal of its course, for Col. McCormick had been assuring everyone within hollering distance of the Tribune that nomination of Eisenhower would be a catastrophe for the party. But since inconsistency is some sort of virtue in politics when the Tribune is concerned, that fact can be put to one side for the moment.

"But when this has been said," the colonel's spokesman declared editorially, "it still remains true that Gen. Eisenhower is the most extraordinary candidate who has ever received a Republican nomination."

Sights set on the target, the cannons are fired.

"He is Mr. Truman's candidate. Mr. Truman has said repeatedly that he hoped the Republicans would nominate Taft, but Mr. Truman's deeds are more revealing in this connection than his words. He offered the Democratic nomination to Eisenhower and gave him every accommodation toward winning the Republican nomination.

"Gen. Eisenhower is also Gov. Dewey's candidate and therefore the candidate of the most unpopular figure in the Republican party today.

"The general is Wall Street's candidate. . . .
"The nominee is also Europe's candidate. . . .
"In sum, Gen. Eisenhower starts his campaign for the presidency with some circumstances in his favor, but under heavy handicaps, perhaps heavier than any Republican candidate ever carried."

Now there are some mighty sweet words. Gen. Eisenhower, in his moment of triumph, is kissed on the cheek and booted from behind by the colonel. But this country wouldn't be quite the same without the durable McCormick. Next to Bob Hope and the Puerto Rico delegation, he probably contributed more hearty chuckles to the Chicago scene than anyone else. Gen. Eisenhower, who ought to know what he has gotten into by this time, has been extended a bon voyage by the voice from the ivory tower that houses the Tribune.

Calling A Special Session

It will be up to Gov. Val Peterson to decide whether to call a special session of the Nebraska Unicameral on highway matters in the event a request for such action reaches him.

Late in the week the news columns indicated that a committee organized under the leadership of Nebraska newspapers would be ready with a report shortly.

The very first need of any highway program in this state is money. Without more revenue than is now available, it is talk—and only talk—to lead people to believe there can be any speed-up in the construction program. We have never been able to take full advantage of federal funds allocated to Nebraska for the simple reason that the state itself has not seen fit to provide a tax base yielding sufficient revenue to match dollars.

There are a great many divergent views about broadening the tax base. One group in this state favors increasing the gasoline tax and hiking motor vehicle license fees. Still another clings to the idea of a general sales tax, limiting the use of those funds for specific purposes, including road building. Still others feel that trucks in particular are not contributing their just share to the construction and maintenance of roads.

Until there is some crystallized sentiment in Nebraska, it is a waste of time, energy, and money to convene the legislature in an election year for the purpose of increasing highway taxes. With an election in November, no legislature is going to take a bite out of the pocketbook of the voter. It is simply asking the legislator to take the bit in his teeth and bull his way through. It is a little bit too much to ask.

A much wiser procedure would be to inject the highway issue into legislative elections by asking each candidate for the legislature to commit himself to a program providing more money for roads.

Truman May Throw His Hat In Ring—If . . .

WASHINGTON—While the Republicans were picking their candidate in Chicago, President Truman finally decided on some candidates of his own.

And while he doesn't want to run himself, he has decided that he may change his mind—under certain circumstances.

These circumstances are if any one of the following Democrats appear likely to get the nomination.

1.—Sen. Russell of Georgia—The President has the highest personal regard for Russell, considers him one of the ablest men in the Senate, has remarked privately that if it wasn't for the race issue he could be the best candidate for the Democratic party. But the President knows that Russell would lose most of the northern votes, and he is determined to see the Democrats win.

2.—Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma—Again, Truman is fond of Kerr personally, but he is also fully aware of Kerr's intimate links with the big oil and gas lobbies and knows the wires Kerr pulled to hike the price of gas to most of nation.

3.—Vice President Barkley—If it wasn't for his age, the President would probably be for him. Barkley has stuck to the basic liberalism of the Democratic party more faithfully than any other southern leader. But Truman is realistic and doesn't think the American people would ever elect a man 74 years old, and again, the President is determined to win.

4.—Speaker Sam Rayburn—The same applies for Rayburn. "Mr. Democrat," as Sam is called in Washington, has authorized some of the cornerstones of the New Deal, but, at the age of 70, he simply can't get elected.

Therefore, if the Democratic Convention meeting in Chicago a week from today begins veering in the direction of any of these four candidates, the President is ready to reverse himself and throw his hat back in the ring. The above will probably be denied. Nevertheless it is what the President has discussed with some of his highest party counsel.

What it boils down to is that the President, within limits, will have the veto power over who is to be the Democratic nominee.

On the other hand he has also picked three Democrats he will support for the nomination at Chicago. They are:

1.—Sen. Kefauver—Though Truman started out with a large lack of enthusiasm for the Tennessee Senator, he has come to realize that Kefauver talks like a winner, acts like a winner, and has all the earmarks of being a winner. In his many months of campaigning, Kefauver hasn't pulled a single boner, whereas Eisenhower's recent crack about the French will not only cost him the French-Canadian vote in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire in November but undid whatever build-up Eisenhower gave the North Atlantic Pact while in Paris. Furthermore, Roosevelt-Truman program more than any other southern leader.

2.—Gov. Stevenson of Illinois—

While the President has been slightly miffed over the way Stevenson has played coy and tried to divorce himself from any association with Truman, the President thinks he would be a strong liberal candidate with a real chance to win.

3.—Averell Harriman—Truman started out having his fingers crossed on Harriman. He even said he didn't think Harriman could have a Chinaman's chance of being elected. Lately, however, Harriman's flair for campaigning, his persistence and his courage have caused the President partly to change his mind. While he still doesn't think Harriman is the most practical candidate, he considers him the most idealistic and he would definitely be acceptable.

The President is expressing no preference regarding the above three, and any combination between them would be satisfactory—such as a slate of Kefauver and Stevenson, or Stevenson and Harriman. But if either of them make a deal with those on the taboo list, then Truman would not be happy.

As he watched the feuds of the Republican Convention last week, the President became more and more convinced that a strong Democratic ticket can win, and he is determined not to let victory turn into defeat—even if he has to run again, or threaten to.

—MAN BEHIND IKE—

Tom Dewey took more abuse than any other one man at Chicago. He smiled as best he could as Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois poured out the vitriol and whipped up a storm of boos against the man who twice led the Republican Party. Not even William Jennings Bryan, who failed three times for President and toward the end was not popular with many Democrats, ever got such a public whipping.

Yet the inside facts are that Eisenhower could not possibly have got where he is without the man the Republican party chastised so unmercifully.

It was Dewey who handled almost every important move in the eastern section of the Eisenhower campaign. It was Dewey who went over Gov. Fine's head by personally appealing to Pennsylvania local leaders and switched that powerful delegation to Ike.

It was Dewey who lashed the whip over the wavering New York delegation and kept them in line. It was Dewey who raised thousands of dollars, used the influence of the steel companies and potent New York bankers, Dewey and his able ex-manager, Herbert Brownell, know more about organizing conventions than any other two Republicans in the U.S. And it was their smooth-running machine which really knocked out the Taft forces.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, originally picked by Dewey to be the front man, operated efficiently as such, but he was intended to be the facade for Dewey.

Thus it was the governor of New York, whether you like him or not, who really picked up Eisenhower's campaign after the flop in Abilene and ran with the ball. If he hadn't, Ike would never have got off the ground in Chicago.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Taft Camp's Bungling Paved Way To Defeat

CHICAGO—The real verdict on this convention so full of conflict and confusion will not be returned until November. But the postmortems have begun even while the oratory still echoes.

Postmortem may seem a harsh word to use. Yet there are many who feel the self-inflicted wounds go so deep that resuscitation will be difficult, if not impossible.

Whether it was overconfidence or just plain bungling, the managers of Sen. Robert A. Taft seem to have made about every possible mistake and some that should have been impossible. Most of the errors resulted from the loose alliance between the Taft forces and the bitter-enders in control of the shadow party in the South.

Once the Taft managers had embraced Henry Zweifel of Texas, John E. Jackson of Louisiana and the other shepherds of the token GOP, the trap was set. The mutual grip could not be broken and one disaster followed another with the inevitability of a Greek drama.

In one of the strategy huddles just before the opening of the convention two or three of the bolder souls in the Taft camp suggested a dramatic move to be made on the opening day. This would be an announcement that the Taft forces accepted the challenge of the rules as proposed by the Eisenhower forces to forbid any contested delegate from voting on the contest in any state. Even at that late hour, coming after the bitter fight in the National Committee, it was argued, such a move would be taken as an indication of confident strength. "If you can't lick 'em, then join 'em" was the pragmatic counsel urged in a session in which nerves were already wearing thin.

But that would have meant throwing over Zweifel, Jackson and company. Loyalties deeply enmeshed through years of association on the National Committee were involved. The decision was against such a move that at the outset would have robbed the Eisenhower propaganda of a lot of its popular appeal.

Even before this decision, the refusal to permit the sessions of the National Committee considering the delegate contests to be televised had given the Ike camp a convenient propaganda weapon. The rights and wrongs of that decision are by no means all black or all white. A good case can be made against the clutter and confusion of television when it is improvised in a comparatively small hearing room. Nevertheless, the fact of the refusal let color to the cry of "steal," "star chamber session" and "streamroller."

The presentation of the Taft case to the full convention was singularly inept. Rep. Clarence C. Townsend's so-called compromise amendment on the seven Louisiana delegates came as a surprise to some of the principal Taft managers. What that amendment compromised was in reality the whole Taft position.

An old-fashioned southern stemwinder was put on to conclude the Taft argument. He succeeded in sounding like a parody of just what the Eisenhower camp was trying to throw over—the vest-pocket Republicanism that has so long been a stumbling block in the way of a two-party system in the states that made up the Confederacy.

At the turbulent night session on the Georgia contest the Taft managers put on Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois to stir the passions with his well-advertised oratory. Dirksen seemed to want to widen the split in the party with his reference to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as having led the party down the road to defeat. Delegates began to take their fists in anger and to boo and cheer in a bedlam of noise. What possible effect this could have had, other than to increase the bitterness, it is hard to see.

One thing the prolonged controversy did do. It showed with startling clarity the real nature of the split in the Republican party. On the one hand are the Republican governors—virtually all of the 25—who are out on the political firing line and who have definite ideas of what it is going to take to win in November. Because they believe they can win with Eisenhower they joined in the statement on the delegate contests issued at the Houston governors' conference. That statement was the beginning of a bold strategy that never for a moment flagged.

In contrast, Taft went around his neck line an albatross—the defeated and defeated past. This was symbolized by Herbert Hoover's public endorsement of the senator from Ohio which, well-intentioned as it was, fell like a random and final blow. It is that same fearsome albatross—the defeats of the past—which the revitalized faction of the party most decries.

Margarete Wissmann, 320 No. 17th, is winding up her affairs in Lincoln preparing to sail for Germany and home on August 29.

One of the last of a group of German foreign language teachers to leave the United States after spending several months studying teaching procedures and materials, Miss Wissmann has been teaching German courses at the University of Nebraska summer sessions.

Impressed by the wealth of audio-visual teaching aids available to American teachers, Miss Wissmann nevertheless believes too much emphasis is placed on teaching aids and not enough on teacher initiative.

"Audio-visual aids help the teacher and help the student's pronunciation," she explained. "A teacher must not rely too heavily on these aids or she will soon become lazy."

Teaching a foreign language in Germany (Miss Wissmann teaches English and French) is a different matter.

The attractive blonde feels that the American system of not beginning foreign language instruction until reaching high school level does not give the student the proper background.

"In Europe, we start teaching a foreign language when the child is about 10 years old," Miss Wissmann said. "At that age, learning a new language is fun, it is not just memorization. And all students take a language—it is not an elective subject."

Although she admits to a certain amount of homesickness, Miss Wissmann says she will be sorry to leave the United States. "This is a land of possibilities,"

The People Speak

Civil Rights Plank

Riverton, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Of all the glaring inconsistencies in the Republican national platform, and there are many, the most flagrant is the pronouncement on civil rights:

"We deplore the duplicity and insincerity of the party in power in racial and religious matters. Although they have been in office as a majority party for many years they have not kept their promises."

Examine for a moment the evidence upon which to form an opinion concerning which party has been guilty of duplicity and insincerity.

When the Republican Congress of 1948, the 80th Congress, was in session both parties had declared for a civil rights law in justice and fairness to the Negro. The Republican party did absolutely nothing, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Truman insisted on such a bill being passed. The Republicans refused even when Mr. Truman called a special session for that and other purposes. That Republican Congress joined in a filibuster with the Dixie Democrats, men who had ruthlessly and brutally mistreated the Negroes, to prevent any such legislation.

In the Chicago convention hall beneath the picture of Abraham Lincoln, the Great Emancipator and lover of humanity and justice, they professed great respect for and pride in this great leader and for his love of equal rights, and then proceeded to pass the resolution on civil rights cited above.

It is a wonder that when such a proclamation was made under the picture of this great statesman, the pictured lips of Lincoln did not burst into words to rebuke the recreant sons for their hypocrisy and cant, and for the misrepresentation of the dead.

Farm Groups Prefer Detour To New Bridge

State Cites Lesser Cost Of Own Plan

By ARCH DONOVAN
(Star Staff Writer)

Some farm groups, that have long cried "inefficiency" in the State Highway Department without offering any proof, are now offering the temporary bridge and detour on U. S. 73-75 across the Nemaha river north of Auburn as the "horrible example." It estimated cost is $52,000.

They contend that a five mile detour to the east using facilities of State No. 3 east of Auburn and State No. 67 west of Peru would be cheaper.

Harold Aitken, state engineer was queried as to whether or not highway funds were being wasted and how he could justify such an expenditure on a temporary structure.

He said that the detour and temporary bridge is included in the $377,500 to be expended for the new bridge and necessary culverts and paving.

The problem Aitken said is caring for the daily average of 2,500 vehicles which used the highway at that point in 1951 with peaks of 4,500 vehicles. Included was 232 truck-trailer combinations, 14 buses and 354 other trucks daily.

Pencil in hand, Aitken figured that the detour proposed by farmers in the area would be 9 miles long. Dropping his estimate to only 2,000 vehicles daily, although traffic so far this year has been heavier than last year, it would add 18,000 miles of extra travel.

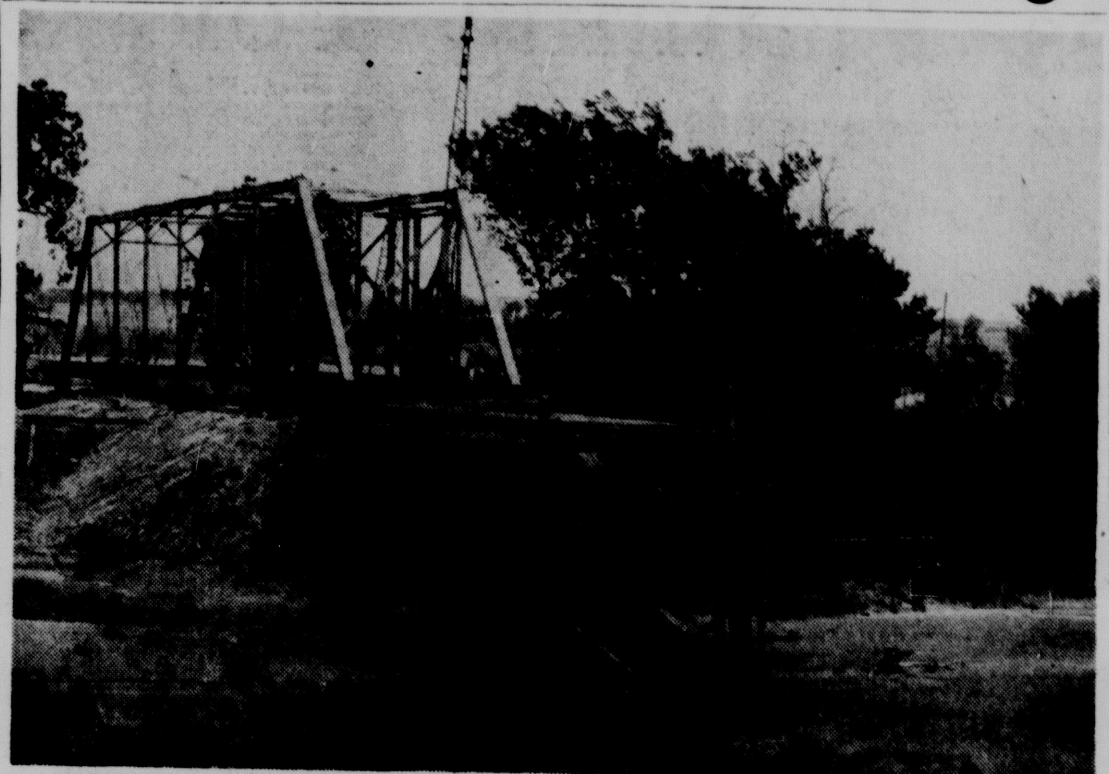

Estimating travel cost at 5 cents a mile, he said the proposed nine mile detour would cost motorists $900 extra per day.

In addition, he said, surfacing of the 5 mile detour with rock would cost $19,000 and if hard surfaced suitable to care for the large volume of traffic it would amount to $100,000.

Bulk of the material to be used in the detour bridge is salvage from other sites, Aitken said, and will be used again.

The new bridge was made necessary by the 1947 flood when one span washed out.

Cost will be met with $31,000 in state funds, $157,000 in federal emergency flood funds and $188,000 in regular primary federal aid funds.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSES on this bridge across the Nemaha River north of Auburn. It was cited by farm groups as an example of "inefficiency" on the part of the State Highway Department. The state contends its construction is a logical use of funds. (Star Staff Photo.)

200 Combines Standing By Near Alliance

The Nebraska State Employment Service has announced that 200 combines are standing by around Alliance waiting for the wheat harvest to get underway about the middle of this week.

A surplus of trucks was also reported on hand at Alliance, but the supply of labor was about in balance with the demand.

Many of the combines in Nebraska are moving on north. A particularly heavy migration was reported on Highway 26 at Ogallala. Harvest was about 85 to 90 per cent complete in the North Platte area.

'Fillmore County 'Festival Of Fun' Plans Announced

GENEVA, Neb.—Fillmore County 4-H members—both boys and girls—will present a public "Share-The-Fun Festival" Tuesday night, July 29.

The program, which will begin at 8 p.m., will be presented from the stage of the Geneva Auditorium. Staged and produced entirely by the boys and girls themselves, the program was described by Fillmore County Agent I. E. Lindstrom as a "show window of talent and abilities of 4-H boys and girls from Fillmore County."

The acts will be judged on the basis of talent, showmanship, audience reception and costume. The 4-H act judged best will go to a district contest. District winners will later compete on a state-wide basis at the Nebraska State Fair this year.

Beck To Study Phelps County Merger Case

HOLDREGE, Neb. (P)—Knotty legal questions entangling the merger of three Phelps County school districts with the Axtell schools will be laid in the hands of Nebraska Attorney General Clarence S. Beck.

That was the ruling County Superintendent Grace Huff said following a public hearing at Axtell. Mrs. Huff told nearly 70 persons attending the hearing that she would ask the attorney for an opinion before she decided the case.

The hearing Friday was a continuation of one which began two weeks ago on petitions filed by taxpayers in Districts 7, 11 and 18 to shift their areas and taxable property to the Kearney County district at Axtell.

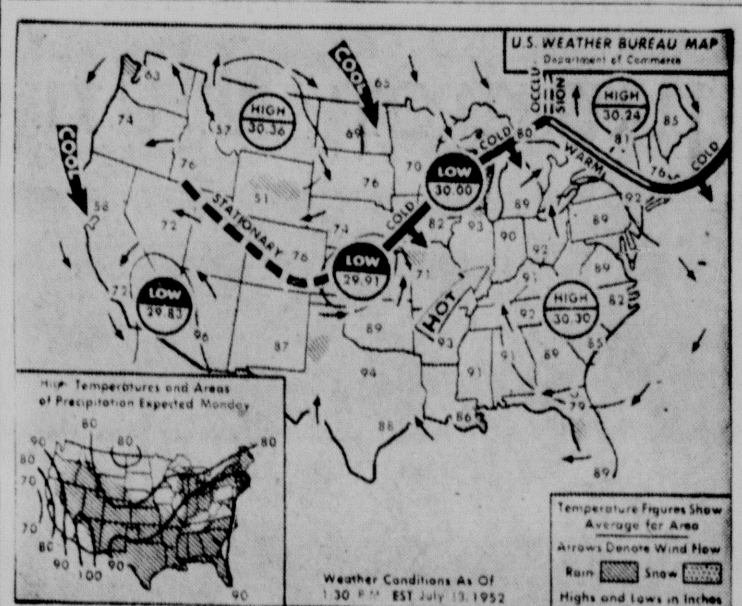

Mrs. Huff ruled Friday that the petitions apparently carried signatures of 55 per cent of the taxpayers. But there were other unsettled questions, she said.

The attorney general will be asked to:

1. Submit an opinion on Mrs. Huff's authority to either approve or disapprove the transfer of the areas to the Kearney County district.

2. Decide whether petitions bearing signatures of 55 per cent of the taxpayers in the Axtell district are required.

Omaha Reports Periodic Increase In Polio Cases

OMAHA (P)—More polio patients have been reported in Omaha so far this year than for the same period in 1951.

Childrens Memorial Hospital Saturday listed its 28th case of the year. At the same time last year, the hospital had admitted 20 polio patients.

At Douglas County Hospital, three polio cases have been reported in 1952.

THAT'S Country Club

Only Country Club is made from 2 fully aged beers...
one light, one dry. Result: mmm!
The Bright Beer!

Talk about refreshment! What could be more tempting than a beer that's extra light? And what could be more pleasing than a beer that's extra dry?

Take a sip of Country Club, and let your taste supply the answer—for this delightful beer is both light and dry!

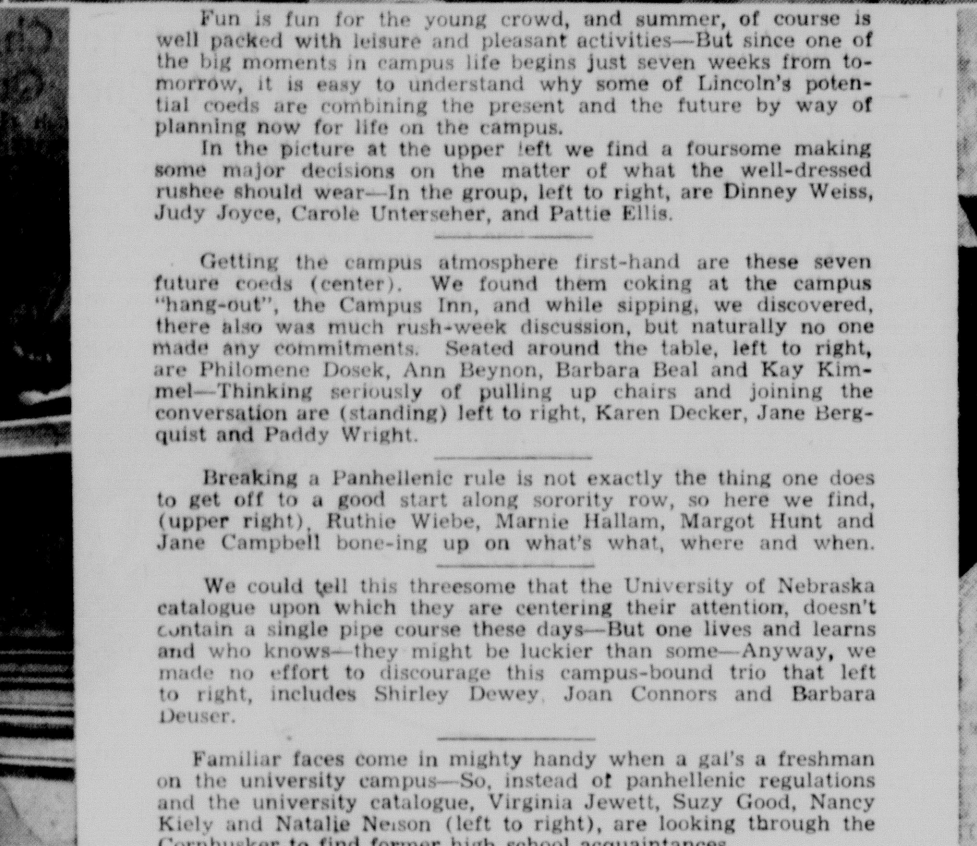

Yes, Country Club—and only Country Club—is two beers in one! One beer is a light beer, complete and perfect in itself. One beer is a dry beer, brewed to perfection, too. Together they make the beer that makes thirst a pleasure—Country Club, the bright beer! Enjoy it today!

Summer Fun Also Includes Planning For College

Fun is fun for the young crowd, and summer, of course is well packed with leisure and pleasant activities. But since one of the big moments in campus life begins just seven weeks from tomorrow, it is easy to understand why some of Lincoln's potential coeds are combining the present and the future by way of planning now for life on the campus.

In the picture at the upper left we find a foursome making some major decisions on the matter of what the well-dressed rushee should wear. In the group, left to right, are Dinney Weiss, Judy Joyce, Carole Unterseher, and Pattie Ellis.

Getting the campus atmosphere first-hand are these seven future coeds (center). We found them coking at the campus "hang-out", the Campus Inn, and while sipping, we discovered, there also was much rush-week discussion, but naturally no one made any commitments. Seated around the table, left to right, are Philomena Dosek, Ann Beynon, Barbara Beal and Kay Kimmel—Thinking seriously of pulling up chairs and joining the conversation are (standing) left to right, Karen Decker, Jane Bergquist and Paddy Wright.

Breaking a Panhellenic rule is not exactly the thing one does to get off to a good start along sorority row, so here we find, (upper right), Ruthie Wiebe, Marnie Hallam, Margot Hunt and Jane Campbell bone-ing up on what's what, where and when.

We could tell this threesome that the University of Nebraska catalogue upon which they are centering their attention, doesn't contain a single pipe course these days—But one lives and learns and who knows—they might be luckier than some—Anyway, we made no effort to discourage this campus-bound trio that left to right, includes Shirley Dewey, Joan Connors and Barbara Deuser.

Familiar faces come in mighty handy when a gal's a freshman on the university campus—So, instead of panhellenic regulations and the university catalogue, Virginia Jewett, Suzy Good, Nancy Kiely and Natalie Neelson (left to right), are looking through the Cornhusker to find former high school acquaintances.

Big Day In France So-Happy Bastille-ing

THIS IS France's Fourth of July—Bastille day. For that matter this is a big day for us, too—We have discarded our second set of temporary quarters and now are ensconced in our new office which is permanent—and as slick as the proverbial whistle—No longer does one have to follow the yellow line—no more do you count forty-two steps and then turn north to get in the back entrance—Now you ride up in style—the elevator—get off at the second floor—take the door to the left—and there you are—or rather, there WE are.

AND NOW for some news that we have picked up here and there and around about—Those three Kaynas who are in town—Mrs. Alfred Clark, the former Clarissa Bennett; Mrs. Myron Bickel of Galveston, Tex. (Jane Sawyer); and Mrs. J. L. Simmons of Coffeyville, Kans., are having a wonderful time reminiscing—Major Clark, incidentally, has gone to Korea, and Mrs. Clark has been visiting her family in Pawnee City where Mrs. Bickel also is spending some time.

Mrs. Simmons, as we told you several days ago, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boyd, and we hear that Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Bickel arrived in town yesterday to remain until tomorrow.

THREE OF the younger men about town—Dick Garlinghouse, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Garlinghouse; Bill King and Walter Henrich, Jr., are waiting, rather impatiently for Wednesday—That is the day the threesome leaves for Camp White Earth, Minn., where they will spend several weeks.

FROM Montevilla, Ala., comes news of the birth of a son, Steven Ralph, to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sears on Friday, July 11—Young Steve's mother is the former Marcia Mockett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mockett, and the baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Sears, also of Lincoln.

SOMEONE told us that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knorr returned on Sunday from St. Joseph, Mo., where they had been spending a few days—

AND WE hear that Mrs. Paul Cannel of San Francisco is in town—Mrs. Cannel came to spend several days with Mr. Cannel who is serving as a consulting engineer on a government project, at the home of his mother, Mrs. W. D. Cannel, and his sister, Miss Margaret Cannel.

At a double ring ceremony solemnized at 9 o'clock, Monday morning, June 9, at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Friend, Miss Margaret Ellen Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Murphy of Friend, became the bride of Lawrence M. Harre, son of Mrs. Lawrence M. Harre, of

Quota Officer Is Honored

A recent visitor in Lincoln was Dr. Bertha Luckey of Cleveland, Ohio, who was the incentive for many courtesies during her short stay. A dinner hostess who honored Dr. Luckey was Miss Ona Wagner, who entertained a small group of guests at the Hotel Cornhusker.

Dr. Luckey, chairman of the department of psychology for the Cleveland public schools, recently was elected second vice president of Quota International at the annual convention of the organization, held at Hotel Coronado, Coronado, Calif.

Members of Fidelia Lyceum will meet for a 6 o'clock dinner, Tuesday evening, at the Capital hotel. Following the dinner, a program will be presented and the remainder of the evening will be spent informally.

Church Wedding At Friend

of Mr. and Mrs. John Harre of Exeter. White peonies, gladioli and mock orange blossoms decorated the altar for the service, the lines of which were read by the Rev. Joseph Keany.

Proceeding the ceremony, Miss Loretta Murphy, sister of the bride, sang "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother," and Jerome Harre and Eugene Harre, brothers of the bridegroom, sang "Ave Maria," and "Oh Lord, I Am Not Worthy," accompanied by the church organist, who also played the wedding music.

Miss Patricia Murphy was her sister's maid of honor and was frocked in pale blue net over satin. Wearing a similar gown of pink taffeta was the bridesmaid, Miss Joan Harre, sister of the bridegroom. Both attendants carried bouquets of yellow carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was Aloysius Harre, and the ushers were James Harre, Joseph Murphy and Eugene Harre.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and appeared in a gown of traditional white satin. Insertions of lace framed the deep sheer yoke of the fitted basque, and the long sleeves ended in points over the hands. The flaring skirt tapered into a short train, and a bandeau of orange blossoms held her illusion veil. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a rounded bouquet of pink roses tied with satin.

Upon their return from a trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Harre will reside in Lincoln. For traveling, the bride wore a white suit with navy blue accessories.

Introducing—The John C. Douglas's

Although we talked with the Douglas's several days ago, we could get no picture until now because the bottleneck in the family, eight year old Mike, spent a great part of the past few weeks on a rodeo mission to North Platte! Just as his mother could, Mike would be satisfied to spend all his days on a horse, and might miss that aspect of his former home in Sidney, Mont. Mike will be in the third grade at Saratoga school where one might find him on the playground with a baseball glove, for by then there will be no more of the fishing and swimming that he loves during the summer.

Mike's saucy siblings include Marcia who is a year and a half, and five-year old Jerry who will enter kindergarten this fall. Now that Mrs. Douglas has given up her outside careers, (which included credit managements in two large chain stores), she is in for a handfull. While her husband was on the road and in the service, Mrs. Douglas found she needed the diversion and companionship that many people find impossible to seek when there are children. Her arrangement was fine, for she still had time after a business day for rough-housing, sewing, reading, and homemaking. Having been born and raised in the ranching environment around North Platte, she is devoted to horses and the outdoors. When Mr. Douglas is home, he helps his wife in the entertaining they enjoy so much. A wonderful substitution for their own television and the gregarious life that accompanies it, is Mrs. Douglas's sister and their next door neighbor, Mrs. Gerald Gunderson! Fortunately for them both, the summer will be a companionable one, for in addition to running back and forth through back yards, Mrs. Douglas hopes to enroll Jerry in swimming classes this summer.

A constituent of the footwear industry, Mr. Douglas finds he has less time than is ideal for the proverbial hobby! He manages to glue his ear to the radio and television set during any sportscasting, and to get away for an occasional hunting trip during the fall. A former resident of St. Louis, Mr. Douglas served three years in the Air Force with some of that time in Germany. The Douglas's hope to send the children to college here after they are settled someday in a new home.

Faculty Group Has Luncheon

The women's division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce were hostesses Sunday evening at an informal reception and buffet supper at the Hotel Cornhusker, when the special guests were women's division members of the Nebraska City, Omaha and Columbus Chambers of Commerce.

The out of town groups came to Lincoln on Sunday to attend the operetta, "Naughty Marietta," at Pinewood Bowl.

C Of C Women Are Hostesses

Home economics staff members of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture will meet for a 12:15 o'clock luncheon, Monday, in the Persian room of the Hotel Cornhusker.

Following the luncheon, the twenty-three faculty members will hear reports on various national and regional meetings held earlier this summer. Reports on the American Home Economics Association convention, held at Atlantic City, will be presented by Dr. Doretta Schlaphoff, Miss Gertrude Guthrie, Mrs. Nell Wright, Mrs. Clara Leopold and Miss Ethel Saxton, and a meeting on health at Dubuque, Iowa, will be reported by Miss Helen Becker.

Mrs. Virginia Trotter, Ethel Dedrickson and Mrs. Betty Mauleaf will give talks on the consumers meeting held at Manhattan, Kans., and Miss Helen Rocke will report on a clothing workshop held at Madison, Wis.

Miss Florence Atwood, is in charge of arrangements for the luncheon.

Ballet Steps Help

by John Robert Powers

There is nothing that will inject grace into all of your motions and movements as fast as learning a few ballet steps—and that's something you can learn right at home.

Take a few minutes each day (it will be both a pleasure and a figure-beauty treatment) to learn and practice the ballet routines that this column will feature from time to time and soon you'll be moving through your daily rounds with the effortless ease and graceful appeal that make ballet dancers so fascinating to watch on both screen and stage.

Basic Ballet Step To get you started on this most rewarding venture, here's a ballet foot position that you can master. While it improves your balance and limbers up, it will also tone the muscles of your waist and legs! This should doubly inspire you to action.

So let's begin. (a) Stand with your feet six inches apart, toes slightly pointed outward. Fold your arms across your chest, thumbs tucked under the arms and fingers pointing toward your shoulder joints. (b) Rise up onto your tiptoes, trying to keep steady. (If you wobble, practice until you can hold your balance easily—it may be several days before you make the grade.) Now sink to a deep knee bend from the on-toes position, spreading your knees wide apart and keeping your torso erect with hips tucked under. (c) When you are down as far as you can go, extend your arms sidewise at shoulder level. Then, extend your right leg out from the hip to the side so your big toe touches the floor and points outward. Stretch to the side as far as possible. (d) Swing your left arm across in front of your chest. Leaning and stretching, try to touch your right toe with both hands. (Don't expect to actually succeed.) (e) Return to "squat," bring the left arm back to its outstretched pose and rise to starting position. Work slowly. Vigorous movement is not the intent of this routine and will lessen your results.

Willow Grace Repeat the entire routine, swinging the alternate leg and arm to opposite sides. For a beginner, two workouts on each side is plenty. Increase to ten times daily.

There'll be one ballet lesson each week in this series so watch for the others. For a complete set of similar figure-beauty grace-makers, send for "Dance Through A Week To Beauty." Snow, Hitting Highlight Athletics' Split With Bears

DENVER (AP)—Heavy hitting and snow featured a Western League doubleheader Sunday night as Denver and Lincoln traded victories.

Lincoln blasted out 19 hits to win the opener 10-5 and Denver pined out 18 socks to take the second game 14-9. Biting winds tripped temperatures low enough for snow flurries as the second contest ended.

The A's mixed a triple and four doubles with their slugging in the opener in which they had a total of 25 bases. Then the Bears came back with a total of 23 in the afterpiece.

One of these was Bill Pinckard's three-run homer off Starter Jim Bell.

The Bears scored two in the first and Pinckard's homer capped the four-run second which saw Bell go to the showers in favor of Harry Desert. Denver held a 6-1 margin entering the third.

Then Lincoln unbuckled on Fred Wollpert, delivered the second kayo of the day to Hank Williams and piled up six runs on four hits, two walks and an error.

The A's went ahead for the second and last time at 9-8 when Bill Dickey misjudged Bob Gardner's fly for a triple and Bill Stewart smashed a 420-foot homer.

In the opener Lincoln teed off on three Denver pitchers. The A's routed Williams in the third and leading 5-3 in the top of the seventh, knocked Rafael Rivas for five runs. Osorio took over from Rivas in the ninth.

The Athletics added three more in the third on Reedy's double, Gardner's single, Joe Mangini's infield tap and singles by Ken Weiss and Lou Richardson.

Lincoln got its fifth run in the fourth on Orinthal Anderson's

Park Valley Player's Score Highlights City Golf Action

A blazing 33 by Gary Shields at the Park Valley golf course over the weekend featured play on the local links.

Shields in hitting his three hole under par score on the nine hole layout tied the record for the course set by Art Allman.

Although there was a scarcity of golfers on the links due to the heavy rain Saturday night, D. Inbody disregarded the damp course to fire a one over par 37 at Park Valley. Also on the same course, D. L. Johnson holed his second shot for an eagle on the par four No. 4 hole.

Over 360 golfers visited the rain swept Pioneer's course, with only four turning in better than average marks.

Of these four, the Spomer brothers—Sam and Dick—led the way, both with 73's. John Wagner carded a 76 and Al Giesick a 79.

Although the Womens City Golf tournament gets underway today at Pioneers, John Peterson said that either the front or back nine will be open to the regular golfing patrons at all times.

A two under par 70 by Whitey Reed topped the weekend golfers at Hillcrest. Also coming in with an under par score was Jack Heckenlively with a 71.

Other top marks were made by Emil Frank with 73, Gene Chadwell with 76, Dale Wisby with 78 and Bill Sieck and Clyde Bailey, both with 79's.

Leonard Davey copped the weekly sweepstake event with an 83, less a 20 stroke handicap for 63. In second place was J. W. Ripley with an 83 less 14 handicap for 69.

Jack Wilson carded a 35 at the Lincoln Country Club to win the low net event. Second place Herb Deurney with a 37 also fired the low score for the entire 18 holes with a 78. Floyd Chance had a 79.

NEW CHAMP—A dramatic 1-up victory over Dick Irwin of Omaha earned Lincoln's Dick Spangler Jr. the Nebraska Golf Championship.

Winning Is Becoming A Habit For New State Golf Champion

By JIM CLARK
(Star Sports Staff Member)

WINNING the Nebraska State Golf Championship at the tricky Omaha Country Club course Saturday was just another feather in the cap of Lincoln's Dick Spangler Jr.

Dick, a 22-year-old junior in the University of Nebraska law school, picked up his first major victory at the age of 13 and has been winning ever since.

After winning the junior title in the Lincoln Country Club golf tournament at 13, Dick attended the Lake Forest Academy in Illinois where he won three championships.

Returning to Lincoln upon graduation from high school, Dick entered the University of Nebraska and won three letters as a member of Marvin "Preacher" Franklin's golf team.

This was Dick's third appearance in the state golf meet. In 1950 he won the first flight championship and then last year was defeated in the championship match by Byron Adams of Fairbury.

Dick has held the city golf crown for the past two years. He is also two time winner of the Frontenac Invitational.

After winning the state title at Omaha Saturday, Dick departed for Denver to participate in the Trans-Mississippi tournament opening today at the Lakewood Country Club.

Dick's father, Richard Spangler Sr., credits Lincoln Country Club Pro Bud Williamson with a great deal of the new state champion's success.

"While still a youngster," Mr.

start at 8:30 Tuesday morning.

Several matches are still unplayed in the Country Club tournament. These should be completed before the beginning of the Iron Derby Wednesday Pro Bud Williamson stated.

Since many Lincoln golfers—including the newly crowned state champion, Dick Spangler Jr., have entered the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament which starts in Denver today. The Lincoln Star has arranged for special coverage and will have complete results each morning.

Outstanding matches: CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT—This will not be played off until the early part of August since both Irwin and Dick Spangler Jr. are now playing in the Trans-Mississippi tournament at Denver.

New York Splits With Reds After Bums Rained Out

(From Press Dispatches)

The New York Giants, running second in the National League race, were soundly thumped by the Cincinnati Reds, 10-2, in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday, but came back to rescue the nightcap, 4-2, even though failing to take complete advantage of the opportunity tendered them by the weather.

At St. Louis, the Brooklyn Dodgers, slated to play a singleton against the Cardinals, were rained out in the first inning. The Cards were leading at the time, 1-0. The game will be played at Sportsman's Park August 25.

Following a precedent set by the American League, other games in the senior circuit were conducted in one-sided fashion. The Philadelphia Phillies swamped the Chicago Cubs twice 7-3 and 9-2, and the Boston Braves shipped past the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2 and 2-1.

The Reds scored 14 hits to win the first game against the Giants, but dropped the finale when Davey Williams came through with a two-run triple after two were out in the ninth inning.

Williams' blow spoiled Rookie Joe Nuxhall's first major league start. The 23-year-old Nuxhall, who became the youngest pitcher to pitch in the majors when he appeared in a relief stint for the Reds at the age of 15, had tossed up two wild pitches in the first inning to help the New Yorkers score two runs.

Veteran Max Surkont and Rookie Virgil Jester each went the distance to pitch the Braves to their double victory over the Pirates.

Jack Daniels scored the first Boston run in the sixth after hitting a triple and drove home the second counter in the eighth with a long fly to tag Ted Wilks with the loss in the second game.

Ralph Kiner's two-run homer, his 15th of the season, spoiled a shutout for Surkont in the ninth inning of the opener.

The Phillies went their ninth and tenth games out of the past 17 since Steve O'Neill was named manager by sweeping the doubleheader from the Cubs. The twin victories pulled the Phillies four games of the fourth place Cubs. Bob Rush, the winning pitcher in the all-star game, was kayoed in the second match to suffer his seventh loss.

The Phillies combined 12 hits with seven walks in the first game. Richie Ashburn paced the winners' attack with three hits, one a double. Karl Drews, although removed in the seventh inning, gained his fifth victory.

Women's Golf Meet Opens At Pioneers Today

Qualifying rounds in the Women's City golf tournament will get underway today at Pioneers, with tee-off time slated for 7:30 a.m. for the 18-hole golfers.

According to Mrs. Richard A. Monroe, chairman of the tournament, all women golfers who have been residents of the city for more than six months are eligible for the tourney.

Match play will start Tuesday with the players picking their own time to play, preferably in threesomes. Pro John Peterson will be in charge of the pairings. Those pairings not made in advance will be made at the tee.

Mrs. Paul Hyland, the former Jean Hazen, will be the defending champion for the second straight year. If she should repeat this year, the Hal J. Bowers trophy, which is awarded every year, will become her permanent possession.

Trading In Cattle Uneven Following Near-Record Run

OMAHA — Near-record slaughter steer receipts at Omaha's livestock market last week led to uneven trading while hog prices fell and sheep thrived on light receipts.

There were nearly 24,000 slaughter steers on hand, the most for one week since a 26,000 run in May, 1951, the Livestock Foundation said.

Slaughter cattle under 1,100 pounds sold 25 to 50 cents. Steers and yearlings bulked at $29 to $32.50 with a quotable top of $35. The average fat steer price was $31.35, compared with $30.94 the previous week. The week's steer run included some extreme heavies including a 1,688 pounder at $30.

Cows wound up 50 cents to $1 higher, with canners and cutters bracketed at $14 to $17. Beef cows sold to $22.75. The first grassfats cows of the season hit $22 and $22.25. Bulls gained 75 cents to $1. Vealers gained $1, topping at $32.

STOCKERS and feeders rose 50 cents to $1. Feeder steers weighing 1,200 to 1,400 pounds brought $27.50 to $29.00. Despite another complete disinfection because of a new outbreak of vesicular exanthema in one shipment of hogs, the swine division operated close to normal. Butcher hogs sold steady to 50 cents off to $29.50. Old crop shorn lambs and yearlings picked up $1. Shorn lambs up to 120 pounds sold at $22 to $23.50.

Shorn slaughter ewes sold 75 cents to $1 higher at $8 to $25.50.
